Creativity and originality are the coin of the academic realm; there will be no tolerance for any kind of plagiarism or other academic misconduct in this course. Part II of the Rules of the University Senate, Section 6.3 defines academic offense. Section 6.4 (particularly Section 6.4.3) lays out the prescribed procedures for dealing with incidences of academic offense. Note well that the instructor may impose a penalty as severe as assigning an “E” grade if a student is found to have committed for any academic offense.

The text of the relevant parts of the Student Code is online at:

http://www.uky.edu/StudentAffairs/Code/part2.html

Every student is expected to read, understand, and abide by that document.

In this course you may be given access to tools which have the potential for abuse. You are expected to use these tools in accordance with their intended use, and are expected to report to the instructor any security breach, accidental or intensional, related to their use. In particular, if you should happen to discover someone’s password by the use of these tools you must inform the instructor immediately.

If you have a question about or problem with any of these expectations, inform the instructor at the outset of the course.

I have read and understood the above information, as well as Sections 6.3 and 6.4 of the document University of Kentucky Student Rights and Responsibilities. I understand that academic misconduct of any kind will not be tolerated in this course.
